

Solution 1.1

When faced with different alternatives, there are many criteria that can be used to identify the best one. What is the tangible criterion that is usually used in an engineering economic analysis?

Solution:

Financial units for economically best.